

“I can smell the stingyness on your breath”

An Oxford Union-style debate

“With less than ten years to go to achieve the UN goal of halving extreme poverty, New Zealand needs to urgently commit to a timetable of giving 0.7 percent of Gross National Income in aid.”

Chaired by Cameron Bennett

For: Marian Hobbs, Matt Robson,

Against: John Hayes, Matthew Hooton,

With top student debaters

Nicki Willis and Sayeqa Islam

Bunny Street entrance, Rutherford House, Pipitea Campus, Victoria University, 6pm, Thursday, 24th August 2006.

Admission free. Organised by UNANZ and the pointseven campaign.

---

In an entertaining and enlightening evening some of our best debaters decide if New Zealand is doing its fair share to end world poverty.

Do our aid levels make New Zealand a good neighbour – or an international miser?